DOCTORS DENOUNCE ATTEMPTS TO SWAY ATTITUDE ON LIQUOR

Association Against Bad Alcohol Assails Dry and Wet Drives.

INFLUENCE FOR GAIN IN POLITICS ATTACKED

4,000 Arrive to Attend American Medical Convention, Starting Today.

Attempts of wets and drys to influence the American Medical Association, which opens its seventy-eighth annual convention here today, in its stand on the liquor question were equally denounced yesterday in a statement by Charles Capehart, president and director of the Association Against Impure Liquor, composed largely of members of the great medical body.

A few days ago, William H. Stayton, national chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, wrote a letter to the surgeon general in which he charged Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Antisaloon League, with trying to "stack" the convention of the American Medical Association and the convention of health officials, also held here at this time, with physicians who were "right" on the question of liquor.

Stayton quoted a letter purported to have been written by Wheeler to all State superintendents of the league, asking them to have, as many physicians as possible who were "right" attend the nation-wide health convention, and otherwise to try to persuade physicians to use their influence at the convention of the medical body to stem the flow of wet propaganda, which it was feared would emanate from the sessions.

Stayton Deplores Interference.

Stayton deplored the interference of the Antisaloon league with the business of purely scientific organization. It's for indicated that Wheeler had been unusually active in trying to control, through the league's influence and contacts, the attitude of the medical and health associations on the liquor question.

The reply of Mr. Capehart yesterday holds both the forces of the league and the forces of the opponents of the league in the same light. The Association Against Impure Liquor, it was pointed out, has two major objectives. Both of these objectives are in the essential an attempt by physicians to assert the rights of medicine against the encroachment of politics. The first is to insure pure liquor, undiluted and undrugged. The second is to remove from medical practice the labyrinth of red tape processes which bind physicians in the dispensation of liquor.

The statement of Mr. Capehart reads in part as follows:

"Neither the wets nor drys should undertake to capitalize the influence of the great American Medical Association for political gain."

Deplorable, Say Head.

The American Medical Association is recognized and established as a non-political, non-sectarian, medical body, devoted purely to ethical and scientific standards of the highest order.

It is therefore deplorable that the professional prohibitionist and the professional antiprohibitionist should seek to use the convention of the association at Washington this week, or that of the public health officials of the United States, as a vehicle for partisanship or prejudice.

The Association Against Impure Liquor is neither wet nor dry. It was formed in the interest of public health and public welfare. It is a nonpartisan movement to safeguard the physician, the druggist, the patient particularly, and the public generally, from impure, drugged, doctored, illegal, bootlegged liquor.

The association is not concerned with any movement for or against the repeal of laws relating to liquor. Its purpose is to insure purity in liquors administered to the sick. We have more than one hundred distinguished physicians, representative of practically every State, among the members of our advisory board."

Mr. Capehart quoted from the recent statement of Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner of New York city, chairman of the board of the association, concerning the appalling number of poisonings resulting from the consumption of "cut" and denatured alcohol by the public. It was the result of investigations, revealing the deplorable conditions which exist, he said, that the association was formed, with a view to remedy.

Approximately 4,000 physicians, representing the entire United States, had arrived up to last night for the convention, which will continue through to Friday. It is estimated that 6,000 persons had arrived for the convention last night, for many of the physicians are bringing their wives with them. The annual meeting of the woman's auxiliary of the association will be held at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in the American Red Cross building. The auxiliary also has arranged a social and entertainment program.

There will gather at the convention the largest number of medical men ever

$60,000 in Gems Stolen From Store on G Street

Thieves Bore Through Wall of Adjoining Building to Force Entrance to Shop Safe—Blankets Used to Deaden Noise—Discovered Last Night.

More than 100 pieces of jewelry, valued at approximately $60,000, were looted from the safe in the antique store of Adam F. Arnold, 1323 G street northwest. The robbery was discovered last night shortly before 7 o'clock by Mr. Arnold.

The safe, 7 feet high and weighing several thousand pounds, contained all the rare and expensive jewelry owned by the firm. The thieves chiseled the knob and dial from the safe, forced down the tumblers and removed its contents.

The robbers chiseled through a wall dividing the store from an adjoining office building, 1321 G street. A large hole cut through plaster, wood and huge plates of tin was made to effect entrance. Near the hole were large blankets used by the robbers in deadening the noise made during the forced entrance.

Mr. Arnold said some of the jewelry was insured for $40,000. Detective Patrick O'Brien, of the central office, and police of the First precinct are investigating.

The thieves left no clues in their wake. Mr. Arnold has not completed the list of stolen gems.

"EMPEROR" IS INACTIVE

Six young men were injured, five seriously, shortly before midnight when the automobile in which they were riding on the Marlboro Pike at Silver Hill, Md., near the District line, crashed into a large tree after bounding off a 5-foot post. George Brew, 23 years old, of 141 street northwest, driver of the automobile, is at Casualty hospital, not expected to live.

Their injuries are: Brew, possible fracture of the skull, fracture of the leg in two places and three fractured ribs; Harry Boucher, 21 years old, of 49 street northeast, possible fracture of the skull; William Dugan, 22 years old, address unknown to police, likely fracture of the skull; Thomas Quill, 22 years old, 11 K street northeast, fracture of the jaw; Thomas Dorsy, 22 years old, of 1422 C street northeast, teeth knocked out and broken ankle, and J. F. Smith, 22 years old, of 4 I street northeast, treated for shock.

Brew, Dorsy and Quill were taken to Casualty hospital by a passing auto. The others were treated at Providence hospital.

According to Quill, Brew lost control of the automobile when he was making a turn in the road after having been blinded by another car.

Police of the Ninth precinct last night learned Quill was a Georgetown university law student while the others are graduates of Gonzaga college.

The statement of Mr. Capehart reads in part as follows:

"Neither the wets nor drys should undertake to capitalize the influence of the great American Medical Association for political gain."

GAS STATION HELD UP; HEADQUARTERS NEAR

Policeman, Half Block Away, Also Does Not See Youth Obtain $153.

Apparently unaware that he was just across the street from detective headquarters and within half a block of Policeman Charles Mansfield, of the First precinct, a young white man last night shortly before 10 o'clock "stuck up" the gasoline station at Fourteenth and D streets northwest and robbed John F. Carlisle, 30 years old, manager of $153.

After robbing the cash register of everything excepting some change, the young robber, with pistol leveled at Carlisle's stomach, backed Carlisle into a small room in the rear of the station, told him to keep his mouth shut and then pretended to lock Carlisle in. After a few minutes' wait, Carlisle told Detective Patrick O'Brien, who investigated, he jumped through a rear window, called the police, and then discovered he had not been locked in. Carlisle said the man, who was well dressed, drove up to the station in a small railroad, ordered two gallons of gasoline and then followed him into the station to get his change. After getting his change, the robbery took place.

Plans for taming "Joe" and "Hanna," lion cubs recently received at the White House from the Johannesburg, South Africa, mayor and teaching them to salute "Old Glory" and perform acts, have been vetoed by the President in his reply to the offer of Miss Jose Carlin, famous lion tamer.

The presidential lions will be exhibited untamed in the National Zoo at Washington, Miss Carlin was informed.

There will gather at the convention the largest number of medical men ever

SURFBOATS RESCUE 1,300 FROM LEVEES AS DIKES CRUMBLE

Craft Now Moving Out 2,000 Others in the Big Bend Area.

BAYOU DES GLAISES FLOOD GROWS WIDER

Seaplanes Direct the Work of U. S. Coast Guardsmen in Louisiana.

Baton Rouge, La., May 15 (By A. P.)—A radiogram from Maj. John C. Gotwals, army engineer in charge of the operation of rescue boats, to relief headquarters here today indicated that all of the refugees marooned on crumbing Big Bend levees at Bayou des Glaises had been rescued.

One thousand persons, including a few women, were evacuated from the levee between Moreauville and Kleinwood, and 300 were taken from embankments near Red Fish, Maj. Gotwals' message said. Their position had been persistently previously reported as extremely perilous.

His advice also said 1,500 head of live stock had been taken aboard barges from the Moreauville-Kleinwood dykes.

The rescue craft tonight were concentrating on evacuating approximately 1,000 persons in the inundated sections of lower Avoyelles and St. Landry parishes. Surf boats were combing the region for marooned victims and they were effecting rapid evacuation of the 500 residents of Pautsville and the same number at Gaudeau.

A scattered number throughout the section are expected to remain in the upper stories of their homes and their evacuation is expected to be completed tomorrow, Maj. Gotwals said.

500 Square Miles Flooded.

Army engineers estimated that 500 square miles were inundated tonight by the Bayou des Glaises break. The flood water moved 20 miles south last night and today, they said. As it spreads, its progress, however, will be considerably slower. In the concentration of craft to rescue the marooned victims on the levees there were 7 large boats. 7 coast guard cutters and 30 motorized surfboats.

The surfboats, manned by experienced lifersaves of the United States coast guard, were passing through the turbulent currents behind the previous as soon as the whirlpool eddies, which always occur after a lever break, had subsided a little.

The coast guard cutters and large boats remained out of the crevasses and the surfboats brought the refugees from the levees to larger craft. The large craft then took the refugees to Maneva at the western end of the bayou, where a Red Cross camp on a 60-foot bluff has been established, safe from the flood.

Seaplanes Direct Work.

The surfboats, behind the levees, took aboard their loads of refugees and sped over the now inundated Big Bend route to Long Bridge, where for a square mile the only place in the section there is dry land on a small hillock. From Long Bridge they were

Miss Florence Green, 27 years old, 1238 Thirteenth street northwest, who was riding in the car with Thompson, was cut about the face and treated at Georgetown University hospital.

Battered Against Wall on Roof of a Bronx Tenement; Maniac Sought.

New York, May 15 (By A. P.)—An unidentified girl about 9 years old was found dying last night on the roof of a Bronx tenement, the victim of an assailant who had seized her by the feet and swung her head repeatedly against the firewall surrounding the roof.

The child died in Lincoln hospital half an hour after she had been found without regaining consciousness.

Feared that her assailant may have been a maniac who would attack others, scores of police immediately were detailed on a thorough search of the district for him.

The girl later was identified as Yetta Abrahamowitz, the daughter of Louis Abrahamowitz.

FENG ENTERS WU'S HONANFU BASE; CHEN THREATENS BRITAIN

Will Use Language That Chamberlain Must Heed, He Says.

BAYOU DES GLAISES FLOOD GROWS WIDER

U. S. Destroyer Pillsbury Is Fired On; Mme. Sun Held Virtual Prisoner.

Shanghai, May 15 (By A. P.)—A wireless despatch from Hankow states that the nationalist government claims that Feng Yu-Hsiang, the so-called Christian general allied with the Hankow nationalists, has captured Honanfu, 110 miles west of Kaifang.

(If the reported capture of Honanfu is true, it looks as an important victory for the Hankow nationalists. Wu Pei-Fu, northern marshal and long prominent in Chinese affairs, has had his chief base near Honanfu. He has been in retirement for some time, but recent military activity on his part has been reported.

Martial Wu and Gen. Feng have long been rivals for power in northern China and each for a time was virtually the power that dictated the affairs of the Peking government.

Chen Warns Britain.

Eugene Chen, minister of foreign affairs for the Hankow nationalists, took occasion, in an interview with Reuter's correspondent at Hankow, to warn Great Britain that the country would suffer deep and lasting injury if she frittered with the nationalist regime founded by Gen. Chiang Kai Shek. Chen was referring to the statement made in the house of commons on May 9 by Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, in which he described the split in the ranks of the nationalists.

Chen said: "Before three months have passed we shall conquer our way to Peking where, in the name of nationalism, China and of the Kuomintang, I will speak language which Chamberlain will be unable to ignore.

His advice also said: "England will suffer deep and lasting injury if she flirts with Chiang Kai Shek, who won't last out the summer."

Chen admitted that the nationalists and British policies expressed in the Hankow agreement had not been followed up and that the series of remarkable events referred to by Chamberlain had in fact occurred. He, however, attributed these incidents to the presence of the British defense force in Shanghai.

Camels to Be Tried On Canadian Farms

Winnipeg, Manitoba, May 15 (By A. P.)—Camels that were tried once unsuccessfully to supplant the prairie schooner during the 1849 gold rush, are to be given another chance to establish themselves on the North American continent.

WOMAN DEAD, 2 HURT IN BURGLAR BATTLE

Thieves Open Fire When They Are Surprised by Police at New York.

New York, May 15 (By A. P.)—A woman was killed, an unidentified man was critically wounded, and a patrolman received two bullets in the thigh, in a shooting last night which followed the patrolman's accosting two men seen trying to break into a store.

Patrolman Shaffer was informed by the unidentified man that the two men were trying to break into a store on Twenty-ninth street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues. Hastening to the store with his informant, he found the two men stealing away. When he spoke to them, they drew automatics and fired.

The woman, Mrs. Anna Coombs, 48, was struck by a stray bullet while trying to reach the entrance to her apartment house. The policeman's informant was shot in the abdomen and is in a critical condition in the Roosevelt hospital. Patrolman Shaffer, with two bullets in his thigh, lay on the sidewalk and exchanged several shots with the bandits while they escaped.

COOLIDGE ALMOST BULL MOOSE IN 1912, PROGRESSIVE SAYS

Bay State Publisher Doubts
President Signed Antithird-
Term Petition.

PLANNED TO OPPOSE GILLETT FOR HOUSE

Caution, It Is Declared, Finally Persuaded Executive to Remain Regular.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

The native caution of Calvin Coolidge, which has been exemplified many times since he held him in check in 1912 when Massachusetts was split between the loyalty of the Progressive party and the nationalism which Roosevelt created for the progressive party, according to Dusty Lucier, of Boston, Mass., newspaper publisher.

Mr. Lucier, in Washington over the week-end, says that Calvin Coolidge, ranking member of the State senate after having finished a term as mayor of Northampton, signed no antithird-term petition in the campaign of 1912.

Michael J. O'Shea, of Worcester, says that he obtained the Coolidge signature to a third term petition and still has a copy of it.

The President refuses to discuss the matter.

Mr. Lucier in 1912 was city editor of the Northampton Herald. Since then he has become editor of seven papers in New England, but 15 years ago he was as the city editors on most small papers are, also the political reporter. He was in addition an ardent Progressive, member of the Northampton Progressive Committee and press agent for that body.

Called on Calvin Coolidge.

In the course of his duties as a newspaperman he called on the then candidate for the State senate, Calvin Coolidge, every day during the 1912 campaign. Mr. O'Shea says that as a progressive partisan he did his best to convert Mr. Coolidge to the progressive fold, and as a strong Bull Moose adherent so he declared, yesterday.

"The thing that he was considering was entering the race for the House of Representatives as a Progressive against the present Senator Gillett, but in the end he decided to stick to the middle of the road. He was not an avowed Taft man, for I recall that in his campaign for the State senate he obtained the support of the Taftites.

I had won over to the side. I do remember that he was an admirer of Roosevelt's and that he hesitated a long while before making up his mind."

CONCORDIA CHURCH NOW 35 YEARS OLD; CELEBRATION HELD

Lutherans Hear History of Edifice Outlined by the Rev. P. A. Menzel.

MISS NEIKIRK, DEITZ, SR., HONORED AT SERVICES

Thirtieth Anniversary of the Founding of Mission Society
Also Is Observed.

THE REV. CHARLES ENDERS,
pastor of Concordia Lutheran Evangelical church, which celebrated its thirty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of its present building at Twenty-first and G streets northwest, yesterday.

Coolidge did not sign an antithird-term petition, but my recollection of that campaign is too vivid for me to have forgotten, if he had signed such a document. I was city editor of the Northampton Herald in 1912, and the city Progressive committee and press agent for the latter organization.

David Brundin, pastor of St. Matthew's Evangelical church, Baltimore, Md., and president of the board of educational institutions of the Evangelical Synod of North America, delivered the principal address at the services yesterday. He spoke both in German and in English.

He urged the congregation to remember that the church is not a social club but exists only for Christ and that belief in Christ is the only reason for the existence of the church.

He stressed the need of prayer and urged the cultivation of a spirit of fellowship in the church.

Church History Is Told.

The history of the church was outlined by the Rev. Paul A. Menzel, executive secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Evangelical Synod of North America, and a former pastor of the church, in an address at the evening services.

Charles Deitz, sr., only surviving member of the original building committee of the church, and Miss Caroline Neikirk, who has taught in the church Sunday school for the last 48 years, were presented with bouquets of flowers.

The fifty-seventh anniversary of the Sunday school and the Ladies' Aid society were celebrated at the services last night. Miss Neikirk told of the work of the Sunday school. The thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Concordia Mission society also was observed yesterday.

The Rev. Ungerer was the first pastor of the church. The Rev. Charles Enders is the present pastor. Fire partially destroyed the church building in 1900, necessitating some rebuilding and renovations. Extensive improvements were made in 1906 and again in 1923.

No Evolution Clash In Genesis, Says Lovell

The theory of evolution and the story of creation as told in the Book of Genesis do not clash, the Rev. Moses R. Lovell, pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Congregational church, declared yesterday morning in his sermon. The theory of evolution is more like a moving picture which elaborates on the story told in the Bible and minutely explains it, he said.

"The power is there," he said, "and it ought to be utilized. Admittedly I would rather see the Federal government take the lead in this field. As there doesn't seem to be any likelihood of this occurring, I would favor private control."

Dr. George C. Havener, a member of the church, Baltimore, and the Rev. George E. Eveler, of St. John's church, also spoke.

The Rev. Dr. Richard Schmidt, pastor, officiated at the services. The congregation was organized April 18, 1884.

Young people's church night will be observed tonight at 8 o'clock. A congregational reception will also be held tonight. Women's church night will be observed Wednesday night. Zion choir will give a reception for the congregation Thursday night.

The Petworth branch, Friends of Zion, will give a reception for the congregation at Second and Uppish street northwest, Friday night.

The Rev. Lovell pointed out that the church, Baltimore, and the Rev. George E. Eveler, of St. John's church, also spoke.

The Rev. Dr. Richard Schmidt, pastor, officiated at the services. The congregation was organized April 18, 1884.

"I have no documentary evidence," said Mr. Lovell yesterday, "that Mr.

Small Progressive Vote.

Either Mr. Coolidge then was already the political head of the Bay State, or he proved himself to be for Hampshire county—in which Northampton is the only city—gave the Progressive ticket in 1912 the smallest proportional vote of any in Massachusetts, or else caution was already instilled in him for he decided to do nothing and saw wood. Mr. Lucifer is positive of that fact.

Ten seaplanes, manned by both naval and marine fliers, dived overhead during the rescue work directing the operations of boats and making inspections of the slowly disintegrating levees on which they were perched at the time the levels were most dangerous; the boats could command rescue work.

Former Gov. Parker, in a radiogram instructed the rescue workers to keep live stock from the levees on account of danger of their crumbling from the animals' movements.

Only radio communication remained tonight as the means for the outside world to know the fate of marooned persons.

DARKNESS HALTS WORK.

Darkness prevented further airplane flights which today recorded their flight. A score of naval radio operators stationed on coast guard cutters here kept the ether humming with messages about the rescuers who mapped out the flooded Big Bend area, showing a stretch 20 miles from east to west, the entire district inundated from Evergreen to the eastern end of the Big Bend with the exception of one square mile of highland at Long Bridge. In front of the flooded area, the reached southward to Big Canoe 20 miles, and ran along the Turners bayou to 5 miles west of the Atchafalaya river. The Louisiana national guard and other rescue agencies had concentrated boats in the lower part of Avoyelles parish.

Mexico City, May 15 (By A.P.)—The Mexican congress, represented by a permanent commission, addressed to the request of the Costa Rican commissioners that Latin-American congresses protest against the Nicaraguan policy of the United States. This is set forth in a resolution contained in the foreign relations report of the Senate, which may be debated the coming week.

The report declares that the committee is acquainted with the grave moral and political consequences of its decision to sustain its voices of protest against our country's policies. International law carried out by an American official.

It accepts responsibility which may be placed on its shoulders for any injury to our diplomatic relations with the United States. Special to The Washington Post.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 15.—Ten days hence, an obstreperous hen on the farm of Walter Ellsworth, near Coggon, is due to get the surprise of her life and create a barnyard scandal, for she is setting on a batch of crow's eggs.

The hen had responded to the call of spring and started out to lay the foundations for her own flock. Mr. Ellsworth, however, who craves fresh eggs, took her eggs from the nest as fast as they were laid.

RUSSIANS' WARNING TO BRITAIN ON RAID MENTIONS BOYCOTT

Moscow Indignation Spreads;
London's Agents Are Under Guard.

POLICE BLOCK MARCH BY MASS OF STUDENTS

Minor Injuries Are Suffered by Those Attempting to Reach
British Building.

MOSCOW, Russia, May 15 (By A. P.)—The wave of indignation is gathering force in Russia as news of the British raid on Soviet house in London spreads throughout the union and is finding expression in street demonstrations, editorial tirades and contributed articles using the resources of the most vitriolic writers and cartoonists.

The newspapers are filled with resolutions of protest from scores of workers' unions, army units and organized bodies of every conceivable sort, denouncing England, demanding a commercial boycott and emphasizing the necessity of Russia being prepared to resist by all means British aggression. Meanwhile the government is laboring on its note setting forth its proposed actions and the note, it is announced, soon will be tendered to the British representative here.

Police Protect British Mission.

A great demonstration in Moscow yesterday, lasting well into the night, developed into scenes of violence with the guards when a mob of students and workers tried to rush the police lines in the neighborhood of the British mission. Reinforcements and troops were ordered at the expense of a few minor injuries to the demonstrators.

For the first time since the Polish mission came in for much of the attention of the marchers, who were crying out against the Poles as well as the British.

Practically all the morning papers carried cartoons caricaturing the British as "the blighty Anglo-Russian," Sir Austen Chamberlain and Sir William Joynson-Hicks, who are held responsible for the raid. One cartoon depicted the three equipped with buglar kits, tiptoeing under the outspread wings of a crown figure. Another showed Joynson-Hicks in the act of touching off a cask of gunpowder with a torch.

Alleged Forged Documents.

The papers editorially make reference to alleged forged documents and the blighted Anglo-Russian commerce, which, it is predicted, will be diverted elsewhere. The tenor of Izvestiya's (bolshivek official organ) comment is typical of the others. It demands action, and demands will be directed by the din-hum and when men pursued so far toward violation of the elementary principles of international agreements and ordinary political decency that not a single fairminded leader dare justify or defend the "in-solent" attitude of the British. The paper continues: "The Soviets are to be tricked by rough provocations. While deep indignation pervades the mass of workers, as evidenced by recent demonstrations, the soviet government will continue to take measures to safeguard the representatives of the people to whom the union is bound by agreements, and spare them the indignities to which the agents of the greatest proletarian republic have been subjected."

"The moment has arrived when the English government and the bourgeois circles supporting it must understand that maintenance of the Anglo-Russian agreement is not less important to England than to the soviet union. If England refuses to take steps to correct the results of violation of that agreement, the only alternative is transference of commercial transactions elsewhere."

Break Called Necessary.

London (Monday), May 16 (By A. P.)—The Daily Mail asserts that documents which the members of the British cabinet regard as of the gravest importance have been found in the soviet house. They establish, the Mail says, the long suspected collaboration between the creation of Arcos, the company controlling Russian exports and imports, and the political activities of the soviet government, and furnish new and remarkable evidence of communist propaganda activities in Great Britain.

The examination of the other documents will occupy some days, but says the Mail, the evidence already acquired is important enough to require the special consideration of the cabinet. "Meantime, the government acquiesced with the situation," the paper continued, "and of the opinion that it will lead to diplomatic action and afford convincing proof of the necessity of breaking off all official relations with the soviet government." Although the British documents have not been discovered, the contents of other papers found are regarded as ample justification for the raid."

$1,504 Catch Taken In Hudson Eel Pots

Albany, N. Y., May 15 (By A. P.)—Fred Hanson, of Jefferson City, Mo., knows his eels. Residents of the Hudson valley towns have maintained that you couldn't take enough river eels to pot to repay for time and money invested.

This was applied to New York State for a license to operate 100 eel pots. In 1925 he sold the state $1,504. In 1926 the total was $1,504.

Rome, May 15 (By A. P.)—Count Vinza, the Spanish Ambassador in Rome, declared today to the Giornale d'Italia that "the Italo-Spanish understanding is complete and absolute, comprising all European problems and the political activities of the soviet government, and furnish new and remarkable evidence of communist propaganda activities in Great Britain."

The examination of the other documents will occupy some days, but says the Mail, the evidence already acquired is important enough to require the special consideration of the cabinet.

"Meantime, the government acquiesced with the situation," the paper continued, "and of the opinion that it will lead to diplomatic action and afford convincing proof of the necessity of breaking off all official relations with the soviet government."

Although the British documents have not been discovered, the contents of other papers found are regarded as ample justification for the raid."

METROPOLITAN

Most likely Bebe Daniels, or somebody for her, said: "There's nothing I can't do," and somebody answered, "Well, let's see you do a Doug." So she did it, and she may be seen doing it any time this week at the Metropolitan, in "Senorita."

Maybe she doesn't look exactly like Douglas Fairbanks, but she does her beautiful best to act like him. As the supposed Francisco Hernandez much desired granddaughter of a South American rancher, she doesn't look like a really a granddaughter, she leads his retainers in wild horsemanship, holds off 20 enemies with her sword, performs marvelous swings and leaps on hangings and balconies, and plays hand-to-hand the part of the dashing Dona Senora. All this she learned strangely, somehow, in San Francisco, where she was born and stayed till her grandfather, hard pressed by his enemies, the Olivares, demanded aid from the male descendant he had left to believe in.

The South American country to which Francesca is summoned is an unnamed land of romantic absurdities, where firearms appear to be unknown and war between the rival ranchers is waged with cold steel. William Powell plays the Dona's son, who has stolen the Hernandez cattle, and James Hall is his handsome cousin, who doesn't like that kind of thing, and falls in love with the visiting heroine in a moment when she has abandoned him. She goes swimming, of course, he can't recognize her as long as she keeps it on, along with the other parts of her dashing male attire, and in the end he compels her to fight him. There is a lot of good comedy of the intentional kind, and the romantic scenes are ridiculous, too, what more can you ask?

The famous tenor, John Charles Thomas, is seen and heard with Vivienne Segal, via vitaphone, in a pleasant scene from "Maytime." If someone had written the letter S to bring the letter S it would be progress. The other letters are fine. In the other vitaphone reel a certain Mr. Marvin and three assistants entertain with voice, ukulele, carpenter's saw, and other favorite devices. There are news pictures, news scenes from the Arctic, an Arctic Fable, and the overture to "Carmen," by Mr. Breeskin's orchestra.

COLUMBIA

The current bill at the Columbia is a knockout. Richard Dix and Mary Brian score in "Knockout Reilly," the feature film; and the added attractions both add and attract. The entire program is innoculated with a punch that puts it in the first rank and knocks out all others from competition.

"Knockout Reilly" is, as it implies, a story of a prize-fighter, and it is almost entirely a story of the ring. The essential points of the theme, even to the finest details, are closely connected with the ring and its fighters, so much so that at times the perfect unity of plot and situation make the picture dull. This fatal catastrophe is averted only by the fact that, true to the versatility of its costars, the theme ranges over the long gamut of human emotions: lightly and deftly handling comedy, tragedy, suspense and despair. Within its limits, it is true to life and at the same time remains completely without the sphere of humdrum human existence.

The characterizations are extremely marked and distinctive. Hero is a honest, hard-working fellow in love with a cabaret dancer, the sister of a pugilist. Dix as Reilly, knocks out Agerra, a favorite prize-fighter, when he insults Mary Malone, the dancer, and thus incurs his enmity, and supplies the motive of the story. Agerra is a gross, despicable villain, being not only crafty but also cowardly. He tricks and beats Reilly in an unfair fight, and with the help of a ready bodyguard of "framers" spends the rest of the picture framing Reilly. But just as light as and easily comes into his own is a dourish Arthur Marvalley orchestra has the usual pep and snaps up the overture, "Slow River," which really isn't as slow as it sounds.

"The Demi-Bride" is the screen attraction for the first part of this week, starring Maria Montez and Lew Cody. There is a mix-up as to whom the girl really loves, but it all ends well in the dynamical climax.

Local Girl in Film.

Myrtle La Vare, a Washington boy, has been cast in a national Surety Co.'s office in this city, has an outstanding part in "Knockout Reilly," the Richard Dix film, playing at Loew's Columbia this week.

RAIL TO HOLD CURIOUS AT FILM DEATH TRIAL

Five, Indicted for Murder Following Drinking Party, to Court Today.

Los Angeles, May 15 (By A. P.)—When the railroads erected a barrier across a corridor of the Hall of Justice to stave off the crowd of curious expected tomorrow when Mrs. Sarah Kerrick and four others go on trial for the murder of "Two-Gun Tom" Kershaw, the coroner's inquest climaxed a night-long Hollywood drinking party.

The screen cowboy was shot and killed in the early morning of April 9 in his Hollywood home at the party attended by his wife and the other four defendants, Mrs. Davis, Harry Isbell, Joe Hunt and Iris Bush, all extras or players of minor picture roles.

Although the prosecution had declared that it expects to prove that Mrs. Kerrick fired the shot which killed the "Two-Gun Tom" Kershaw, the coroner's inquest, which climaxed the grand jury for murder because of confused and conflicting stories of the affair told by the entire party.

Police officers declared it was two days after the party before the five visionaries had recovered from intoxication.

PALACE

"The Taxi-Dancer," Broadway risqué, starring Joan Crawford and Owen Moore, is the featured film attraction at the Palace for the week. On the stage are to be seen Eva Puck and Sammy White, stars of "The Girl Friend" in a repertoire of songs ranging from dainty minstrel comedy numbers to burlesques such as.

It is difficult to place the ace on this bill. "The Taxi-Dancer" is a strong play of that type so familiar to all—a favorite—one—the Broadway struck-country girl who is rescued from "the streets" of the dance hall, the风月场. A young Virginia girl, left a fine old estate by her father and a background for romance by her mother, determined to take "a flier" on Broadway, hoping to become a great dancer. In her sordid beginning however she comes into contact with a gangster through a girl friend she meets up with a trio of human wolves and falls in love with one. Green, she rushes headlong into love not knowing that she is being played for a pawn. And then comes the moment when she has abandoned her own, though her girl friend and the young gambler.

Owen Moore delights as the young gambler and ultimate lover of the country butterfly. Miss Crawford is exceptionally well cast. The play is exceptionally well cast. The play is somewhat sentimental.

Personality and showmanship are the outstanding marks of the work of Eva Puck and Sammy White. Their acts smack quite a bit of the influence of the hand that wrote and staged their original plays.

Supplements for the week include, as overture, selections of old-time Broadway hits arranged by Thomas Gannon and played by the Palace orchestra.

A good newest and Aesop Fables, somewhat different from the usual round out the program. Colby Harrington presents another of his famous color background for the stage work.

STRAND

"Arabian Nights" is the title for this week's performance of the Strand Players. There are many songs of the Orient and dancing by the leading characters of the Players. This week is a huge success and in every way is the best show that has been presented.

Earl Root, with Hamp and Eddie in the foreground, received much applause in the stupendous production of "South Pacific" and "Officer Who's It?" Others were "A Square Game" and "The Scales of Justice." While these did not have quite as much pep as the former, they came in for a good share of applause.

Ruth Weyher, who sings an Arabic air; Miss Billie La Monte, Tom McTwiggan and Bud Brewer.

Miss Shaeffer was especially clever in her dancing, and was recalled several times by an enthusiastic audience. Miss Harrington also comes in for a good share of applause when she does a few Arabic steps.

The new recruits of the chorus are doing fine and have included another blonde model to the liking of the gentlemen who pay the bills. The act being billed as "Smile Awhile." There are smiles and laughs. The skirt is well received.

One of the few Japanese juggling acts to come here this season features the Kitamura Brothers. The juggling of one of the brothers by the other captures the audience.

Johnnie Berlin, the "comedian" of the entire bill. His "crazy" slapstick act is very good. He is assisted by Virginia Scully.

The feature picture, "The Little Adventures," starring Vera Reynolds, is a good one. Ruth Weyher and Theodore Kosloff may be disappointing to the most ardent of Vera's fan friends. It is not as good as many of her previous pictures, but is interesting. It is a new angle to an old plot of the minister's wife and the doctor and husband and wife and the desire for pleasure and excitement by each of them.

The story concerns a man and wife, Leonard and Victoria Stoddard, who believe that each misunderstands the other. Leonard decides to go to Helen Davis. They auto across the mud and they are forced to go to the cabin of George La Fuente. Victoria elopes with Antonio Russo, and their auto, being caught in the mud, they are compelled to seek Mr. La Fuente's hospitality. They are taken as husbands and wives. Early in the evening the real husband and wife meet. The remainder of the plot, if any, is the mixups ensuing and the final settling of complications.

Vera Reynolds is not called on for any great acting in her role of Helen Davis.

The picture is rather slow getting started, but speeds up about the middle. Picture work is notable, and color handling is particularly appreciable.

The story, "Nothing But the Truth" is a comedy. The Del-Cos look at James Montgomery. The Del-Cos play the services of a capable cast of amateur thespians. The cast is headed by Dorothy Schenck. Marianne Spellbring, popularly known in local amateur amusement cosmos, is assigned a new stunt—an injection of several cleverly worded soliloquies, which add to the interest of the picture.

Earl Newsom is the additional film. The orchestra's overture and exit march with Mr. Arons' organ music complete the bill.

STEPS TAKEN TO CHECK OVERPRODUCTION OF OIL

Freight Loadings Again Begin

Retail Trade Is Fair.

New York, May 15 (By the Associated Press)—General business conditions last week continued to embrace both favorable and unfavorable factors, with the former on the stronger side of the balance. The Mississippi valley flood, with its widespread damage to railroad, industrial and agricultural properties was still an item to be considered seriously, but nevertheless, the business of the country is on too broad a base to be seriously affected as a whole.

A concrete step toward countering the evil of overproduction of crude oil in the area was by a nine-day limit produced to cease drilling in the Seminole field for two weeks, and the appointment of Ray H. Collins as a "czar" over the district, lent new confidence to the petroleum trade. However, it is apparent that the oil companies will not be restricted to the Oklahoma pool, and important executives in the industry are giving the situation a broad survey with the avowed intention of formulating, if possible, some plan to relieve the oil business of its present difficulties. The steps to be taken are in the hands of committees of five, who expect to work with the Federal oil reservation board, which has agreed to give every proper assistance.

THE MEDICAL CONVENTION.

The National Capital welcomes the members of the American Medical Association who have gathered here to attend the seventy-eighth annual session of the association. It is 40 years since the association met in Washington. During that time both the association and Washington have grown, taken on new characteristics, and vastly increased their intellectual activities. They have much to learn from each other, and by combining forces they can contribute much to the welfare of the country. The facilities offered by Washington to the medical men are unique, both as to sources of information and means for disseminating it.

After the preliminaries are disposed of the association will get down to business in fifteen sections, devoted to the discussion and consideration of as many branches of medical science. The papers that will be presented in these sections are the cream of research and experience by devoted workers, some of them the foremost specialists in the world. The discussions upon these papers, led by practitioners highly qualified to scrutinize all new proposals offered, should be carefully taken down and published for the benefit of the layman as well as for the use of the profession. It would be a pity if the papers and discussions should disappear, even in part, with the adjournment of the convention. Everything written and spoken should be preserved for this and future generations.

FOOD IN STORAGE.

On May 1, not quite two months after the spring storage season opened, there were nearly 5,500,000 cases of eggs in cold storage as against some 3,700,000 a year ago. Stocks of frozen poultry were 25,000,000 pounds greater than on May 1, last year. Nearly 300,000,000 pounds of meat and 100,000,000 pounds of as compared to 700,000,000 and 80,000,000 pounds, respectively, also were on hand.

There were, however, only 3,400,000 pounds of in storage, whereas a year ago stocks of the commodity aggregated more than 17,000 pounds.

Storage is the stabilizer of the food supply. During periods of overproduction the excess is taken into the refrigerating plants to be in perfect condition against periods of production. Poultry, eggs and fruits are produced during the spring and summer months. During the winter production is down, and the demand, which has lessened little if at all, is taken care of from storage. As far as poultry and eggs are concerned the country seems to be in good shape. The butter situation, however, is another matter.

Possibly demand has been excessive this spring, and dairymen have not been able to put away against a rainy day as much as they might have wished. Possibly the nation's cows have been shirking their duties, and production has fallen below normal. Something ought to be done, however, to fill up the cold storage cupboard during the summer months, for the nation must have its butter next winter, and if there should be a shortage an excessive price will be the inevitable result.

BUILDING CONSTRUCTION OUTLOOK.

The national industrial conference can not solve the "business enigma of 1927 because of the unprecedented economic conditions prevailing," and the riddle will be the subject of study and discussion at the annual session of the organization when it assembles in New York next Thursday. The trouble appears to be that all the charts, indexes and other devices for figuring out the future course of business trends seem to have "gone bleepy," and the board's research staff has been unable "to throw light on the many novel, intricate and often obscure problems which have made obsolete many of the accustomed statistical measures of business activity and trade."

Magnus W. Alexander, president of the conference board, finds that "stabilization has come unexpectedly. Gradually rising activity with only minor fluctuations has been the characteristic of industrial production during the past three years with, on the whole, high wage earnings and declining living costs." Other organizations of business men have noted the same phenomena. The Association of General Contractors, which keeps in close touch with building operations everywhere in the country, finds that the volume of work handled by building contractors during the month of April was 23 per cent above the March figures and 10 per cent above the figures for April of last year, and that only a comparatively small rise in May is needed to place the building operations for the first five months of 1927 well above any figure previously set during any corresponding period.

Figures received from the contractors who are affiliated with the association show that the volume of contracts awarded during March was 56 per cent greater than the corresponding volume for February. This means also that the business booked in March, 1927, reached the 260 level, based on a scale which places the 1913 average at 100 as its basis.

All this indicates that building operations will be greater during the current year than in any previous twelve months of the century. It also indicates that labor is prosperously employed and will so continue. April was the third consecutive month without a change in the average wages in the building trades, and the second month during which prices failed to show perceptible fluctuation. May, 1926, was the only month in which the wage average has been higher during recent years than it has been during the last three months.

"Now that we have achieved in America a degree of stabilized growth," adds Mr. Alexander, "we should find it within our power to dispel ignorance and fear, the chief factors of mischief formerly responsible for that ephemeral miscreant, the so-called business cycle."

A MASTER PLAN FOR CITIES.

The American City Planning Institute is recommending the general adoption of seven restrictions regarding the laying out of subdivisions. Primarily, it asks that State enabling acts be passed delegating to cities and other political subdivisions the authority to prepare plans and to approve subdivisions, under which a master plan should be drawn up showing the location of main thoroughfares, containing recommendations for open spaces and designating land areas for specific uses. In addition it would place the control of the platting of subdivisions in a local planning commission, an appointive, nonpolitical board serving without compensation. The master plan should extend beyond corporate limits to all areas in which the city eventually will expand. The commission should have authority among other things to designate street widths and building heights, and should have the power to make certain that parks and recreational spaces are included in the master plan.

This is an ambitious program, but one in its essentials must be adopted for the cities of the future. The fact is overlooked too often that today's subdivision becomes the congested area of tomorrow. Subdividers, working on the outskirts of municipalities, do as they please. The average operator is concerned only with how many lots he can crowd into his acreage.

Practically every city in the United States is pushing against its boundaries, and as population increases the condition will become more apparent. It would be a fine thing if the program contemplated by the institute could be enacted into law in all of the States.

REFORESTATION IN NEW YORK.

Chautauqua, the extreme western county of New York State, is said to be the first in the country to adopt a real forestry policy on a scientific basis. During the last eight years individuals and groups of the citizens have planted 684,000 trees, which were furnished by the nurseries maintained by the New York State conservation commission. Recently James E. Davis, of the Department of Agriculture, was selected by the board of supervisors to serve as county forester and to promote effective forestry throughout the county.

There are estimated to be 120,000 acres of woodlands in Chautauqua, and it is proposed to increase this acreage by 150,000 acres of reforested lands. The county forester will have general charge of the entire tract. There are numerous reasons for selecting this particular division of the State of New York for the experiment in reforestation. Primarily the topography is ideal. The lands were originally completely wooded, and the soil appears to be particularly well adapted to the growth of hardwoods, as well as conifers.

Within the last few years Jamestown, the principal city of the county, which is located at the head of Chautauqua lake, has developed a very large furniture manufacturing industry, especially in the line of chair making. There is an excellent market for hardwoods at satisfactory prices. The city of Erie, across the line in Pennsylvania, is an excellent market for hemlock, spruce and other woods adapted to paper making, as the pulp mills of Erie are enormous users of such timber. Besides, Chautauqua county has several thousand acres devoted to grape growing and the vineyards require more than half a million grape stakes annually, as well as thousands of crates and boxes in which the fruit is shipped to market.

But it will require many years before the timber crops can be harvested, and under ordinary circumstances the length of time between "seed time and harvest" would make timber culture in New York even more precarious than wheat growing in North Dakota. However, the people of Chautauqua have the cordial support of the State college of agriculture, the Erie and New York Central railroads, and some sixty organizations in helping to finance the county forester. The Department of Agriculture is lending all possible aid and encouragement in behalf of the experiment.

BETTER LEAVE HIM ALONE.

Many a youth has ever learned to his cost what it means to engage in a wordy warfare with a professor in the classroom. Authority generally manages to have the last word and, in addition, is in a position to inflict dire pains and penalties for insubordination, whether real or imaginary. Outside the lecture hall, however, the professor is often regarded as fair game and as a man that may be tackled with impunity. A recent event, or series of events, shows pretty clearly that this estimate of the probabilities is liable occasionally to go awry.

In Newark, N. J., there resides in suburban felicity a professor, who is also a dean. He has attained the good round age of 72, but he has apparently retained much of the bulldog vigor and elasticity of his prime. As recently as six years ago he led an expedition through the wilds of South America, and returned with his health and strength unimpaired. In his leisure moments he, like so many of the philosphers, is addicted to horticultural pursuits.

In his garden are some grapevines and one evening last week he came upon a sturdy youth who was stealing the posts which support the vines. This was more than flesh and blood could bear, and the professor, despite his years, flung himself upon the offender and threw him to the ground. Dismayed by the suddenness and fierceness of the attack, the would-be thief wrenched himself away and made a dash for freedom, with the ancient horticulturist hot upon his trail. Meeting a peddler's horse and wagon standing at the curb, the young man jumped aboard and lashed the horse to a gallop, but the professor was agile and, managing to clamber into the rear of the conveyance, advanced upon his opponent, who shunned the encounter by jumping on to the horse's back. Followed a wild ride through city streets, which ended only when the youth at a favorable location slipped to the ground and made his escape, leaving the septuagenarian in possession of the field and seemingly of the horse and wagon.

It appears that the professor, who is an authority on botanical subjects, brought back from South America a drug, known as ca-apí, which is used by the natives to make themselves more savage and fierce. There is no allegation that he himself used any of this potent concoction, for it was not necessary, but any future trespasser on his premises would be well advised to try a shot or two of it in advance.

The moral, if there be one, is that professors, even when absent from the groves of Academe, are best left unmolested.

THE OYSTER'S FRIEND.

If there ever was any reason for alarm over the possibility of an "adulterated oyster" finding his way into an oyster stew far away from his home and mother—in Puyallup, Idaho, or Medicine Lodge, Kans., for instance—that alarm has been dissipated by Secretary Jardine, the oyster's guardian and friend.

One would think that in the matter of the transportation of oysters the Interstate Commerce Commission, the fish commission, or the public health service would get onto the job. But it should be remembered that bivalves of the oyster family are "planted." Ergo, the bureau of plant industry naturally must keep its eyes open for the result of the "planting." Besides, the Department of Agriculture is specifically charged with the duty of enforcing the pure food and drug act. Oysters are certainly food, and sometimes they are a drug on the market.

Under such circumstances it would be foolish to express surprise over the announcement from the department that "rumors that the Department of Agriculture will not enforce the law prohibiting interstate shipment of adulterated oysters are without foundation." And as still further assurance that the department is on the qui vive in this connection it is further made known that Secretary Jardine has issued a statement to growers, shippers and dealers in order to remove any misunderstanding which may exist.

It is explained for the benefit of the uninformed that oysters taken from salt water and placed on floats in relatively fresh water, "take up large quantities of water which is incorporated in the meats." Such oysters, according to the experts of the department, are considered adulterated, and the law prescribes penalties for interstate shipment of such gorged bivalves. Also it is against the law to ship "shucked" oysters which have been "fattenet" by allowing them to fill up on fresh water.

Also it is against the law to ship "shucked" oysters which have been "fattenet" by allowing them to fill up on fresh water.

Shaking a warning finger at shippers, dealers and receivers of such oysters, and calling their attention to the penalties made and provided, Secretary Jardine appeals to the oyster producing, shucking and distributing industry to aid him in keeping adulterated oysters from entering interstate commerce. Fresh water, or even milk, may be used to convert a raw oyster into a stew, but he must not be fed milk or water prior to arrival at his final destination.

COST OF PRODUCTION.

The Swiss and Swedish delegates to the international economic conference at Geneva have demanded that the conference shall explicitly condemn the practice of certain countries, including the United States, in scrutinizing the books of manufacturers and exporters in order to ascertain costs of production. The United States tariff requires commercial attachés abroad to examine books of producers and to take other steps to ascertain production costs, upon which ad valorem duties are imposed. Both Switzerland and Sweden have refused to comply with the American demands in this direction.

The American delegates at Geneva have given notice that they will resist the attempt to have the conference put an end to the practice. In following this course the Americans are acting in accordance with the plain provisions of the tariff law, and they can not concede to any international authority the right to put a stop to inquiries into production costs. The city of Erie, across the line in Pennsylvania, is an excellent market for hemlock, spruce and other woods adapted to paper making, as the pulp mills of Erie are enormous users of such timber. Besides, Chautauqua county has several thousand acres devoted to grape growing and the vineyards require more than half a million grape stakes annually, as well as thousands of crates and boxes in which the fruit is shipped to market.

STILL LOVES JUDD GRAY, RUTH SNYDER PROTESTS

Crowds Thronging at Jail Are Stampeded by Sight of Blonde Murderess.

OFF TO SING SING TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 15.—On the eve of her departure for the death house at Sing Sing prison, Ruth Snyder has refused the overpowering love she professed to John Gray on the day of her arrest. Today, attendants at the Queens County jail, where she is incarcerated, admitted she had overcome the revulsion of feeling toward her erstwhile lover that seized her after he impregnated her in his confession.

Today, Ruth, who had few belongings preparatory to her惊异的 journey to Sing Sing, Mrs. Snyder insisted she was entering the company of the condemned innocent of any active participation in the murder of her husband's lover, for both she and Gray were semiliterate.

She admits that even now the whole story has never been told, but denies that her husband was murdered for money. Jealousy—passion, perhaps, but not the lust for gold—impelled Judd Gray, the unlettered, administered the chloroform and strangled the sleeping man with picture wires.

Father George Murphy, prison chaplain, today declared he regarded Ruth Snyder as a "truly penitent woman," and Ruth, doubtful that she will be flogged, is determined to go to Sing Sing in a remorseful and a forgiving mood.

Judd Gray, repentant, wants to become an evangelist—wants to "devote himself to teaching the word of God."

Today the jail at Long Island City drew greater crowds than did Mrs. Russey's landing at the Hotel Astor, New Yorkers, ever attracted. Mrs. Snyder did not disappoint the mob that gaped. At 5 p.m. she made a sudden appearance at her cell window, her blonde hair fanned by the breeze, her white sweater making her an easy target for the gaze of the curious. Instantly the crowd, looking like zombies, with their wives and children, stampeded the prison courtyard. She stared down at them for a moment, smiled and withdrew. Hopeful of another glimpse of the murderer she waited until dark, but vain.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND THE CHARACTERS

Christine Farley, a girl popular, just 18, is invited to the commencement exercises of Reserve university by two inseparable friends of her class, both of whom are in love with her. They are:

Harvey Blanton, handsome, brilliant, aggressive; Lewis Hayes, grave, dependable, doggedly determined to make his mark in the field of business.

Harvey proposes to her, and is accepted, so Lewis goes away, without telling her he loves her, on the strength of a secret. On the return Harvey slips away quietly. A year later their son is born.

Lewis has returned to town, meanwhile, and is working for the firm which employs Harvey. He tells Harvey that he had discovered a formula for a new product, and Harvey undertakes to get his uncle, the president of the company, to put it across.

Some time later, it is discovered that Harvey announces that he has been taken into the firm following his discovery of a formula for a new product. Lewis, however, has lost his job, his project being a failure, and has gone away.

CHAPTER IX.

Fame and Fortune.

To Christine, the year that follows Harvey's promotion to membership in his uncle's firm passed in a whirl. She was bewildered by the rapidity with which her life changed. Old habits and customs, old grooves of thought were swept away from her.

She found herself clutching at her babies as the sole mooring to her past, pained by her lack of material means of life. It seemed to her that Harvey was carried far beyond her by his feverish ambition. She could have followed, if she had wished, for she was more intelligent than he. It was his driving, burning ambition, his triumphant confidence in himself that had caused him to go so far, so fast.

"Salary!" he laughed indulgently. "Not on your life; we're going to build a whole new shack."

Harvey laughed indulgently. "Not on your life; we're going to build a whole new shack."

would pay for these luxuries. She approached him one evening in perplexity.

"Darling, aren't we spending a terrible lot of money? I've never known exactly what your new salary is, but—"

"Salary!" he laughed. "You don't think my salary would build even the foundations of the new house, do you?"

"Then what?"

"Sweetheart," he began patiently, with the injured air of a man who is telling something for the seventeenth time, "I'll tell you what your salary is. I've told you, haven't I, that I had the good luck to stumble upon a product that the firm is putting out, and that it is going big. Naturally, my percentage is enormous, so I can't tell you the approximate figures, if you like."

"Oh, please don't," she declared laughingly. "I'd never be able to understand."

"Little goose!" He drew her down upon the arm of his chair and kissed her.

"You probably know nearly as much as I do, but you won't tell it."

Christine saw no conceit in that statement. She was still deeply in love, and her sense of humor had not yet developed. After years, she was to recall many such remarks of Harvey's, with a subtle and ironic amusement.

"Oh, the old crab is probably working his head off in some stuffy laboratory. He's a prince—but he doesn't know it."

"Too small," he declared, with loyally disdain, "a mere box."

Within three weeks ground had been broken in a new and more fashionable suburb, and the plans for the new home were completed. Harvey was already talking about decorators and the best places to buy period furniture. And he had bought an expensive car.

Christine began to wonder how he

QUESTIONS ON THE CARE OF THE SKIN

DEAR Viola Paris: My face has been quite a worry to me of late, although I take great care of my skin. Before retiring at night, I wash it thoroughly with soap and rinse it carefully with cold water. I cold cream it and apply rosewater. Will you advise me as to why my pores are so large and why blackheads appear on my face?

MERRY.—The trouble must be that you are not taking just the right measures for your skin, or you are not taking proper care of your bodily health, or perhaps both causes contribute to the difficulty. If your pores are enlarged, it is followed in the order you have mentioned, then I think it is mistaken. If you are going to use cream for cleansing, use it before soap and water, and not afterward. Instead of a heavy cold cream, I would suggest a light oil lotion. Use the soap that you mention in your letter would be all right for your bath and hands, but I would rather see you use a finer soap on your face. Use warm water, rub with cold water, and then apply a rosewater after the soap.

DR. MUSSER.—The trouble is that you want to keep it in perfect condition by massaging the scalp, applying a good tonic, and, if necessary, a little pomade. Try applying warm cotton oil and rubbing it well into the scalp before the shampoo.

DEAR Viola Paris: Please see the foregoing replies.

DR. MUSSER.—The pores on my face are enlarged and are getting worse all the time. I should very much appreciate your telling me what to do.

ANSWER.—Please see the advice I gave in the foregoing letters. It is very important to cleanse the skin properly so that the pores can not remain clogged. An occasional cleansing with ether, applied with clean absorbent cotton, would be advisable. Always after your regular cleansing, use a good astringent lotion. I am sorry that I can not give trade names in this column.

East Colleges In Gridiron Alliance

Group of 10 Leaders to Name Dictator for Referees.

50 Schools May Join With Idea of Tad Jones, of Yale.

NEW YORK, May 15 (By A. P.)—Tad Jones, head football coach at Yale, today announced acceptance by ten leading Eastern colleges of his plan for selection of a dictator to name officials for the most important grid contests. The man for the position was not designated, but is to be named by Jones probably within a week.

Jones, as spokesman, announced the action after a conference at the Yale club at which were represented Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Army, Navy, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Brown and Dartmouth.

Besides agreeing to recognize the authority of the dictator over all games, the ten schools also agreed to ask their other opponents likewise to accept his appointments. It was estimated that approximately 50 colleges would come under the jurisdiction of the dictator, if all schedules of the ten accepted.

By investing power of appointment in one man, the ten representatives felt much would be done to reduce any feeling of suspicion referee might be inclined to have toward the coach or college official who obtained his appointment.

Conceiving the idea, Jones said, he asked football men whom he knew personally at other colleges to join him in considering the plan. The group of ten, he emphasized, formed merely a nucleus to get the plan started.

After the dictators chosen are to meet with representatives of the ten to determine a list of eligible officials. The latter meeting will be held in connection with the annual conference of the national board of football officials in New York May 26.

Dictator Long in Vogue Among Western Colleges

Chicago, May 15 (By A. P.)—The acceptance by an Eastern "Big Ten" of a "dictator" to pick officials for important football games follows a similar plan in the West. In the Western conference, pioneer university organization, except that a triumvirate of faculty members selects these officials for the Western Big Ten.

The Western conference also has had, for years, a committee of athletics. Major John L. Griffith, but his duties are largely to act as supervisor of eligibility standards and to serve as a clearing house for exchange of correspondence related to activities between its conference universities.

Football officials for Western conference games are chosen from an accredited list by Profs. Ralph W. Alderman, of Michigan; James Paige, of Minnesota, and Omer Long, of North Carolina.

Maj. Griffiths was appointed Big Ten commissioner soon after the selection of Kenesaw M. Landis as baseball dictator of the affairs of professional control of sports. Last winter Maj. Griffiths was empowered to gather the athletic and scholastic heads of the Big Ten universities into a conference on eligibility standards and closer relations between the two groups. The result of a new code of sportsmanship to be signed by each athlete and a four-year football agreement closely approaching a round robin schedule.

Young Beats Rutley; 2d Round Play Starts Today.

THE first annual tennis tournament of the racket got under way yesterday on the Wardman Park hotel courts in fine style. The first round of play produced several sparkling matches.

The outstanding match of the day was the sensational duel between Gould and Ritterbusch. After Ritterbusch had taken the first set, 6-3, in rather hasty fashion, the contestants engaged in a thrilling battle that raged for eighteen games. When the set tied at 15, Gould dashed forward and beat Ritterbusch in a back-court smashing combination with slashing angle shots, to win the following set, 6-3, 6-2, in impressive manner.

Gould and Collins each got home runs, but none were on either home plate.

After the dictators chosen are to meet with representatives of the ten to determine a list of eligible officials. The latter meeting will be held in connection with the annual conference of the national board of football officials in New York May 26.

Tilden-Hunter Win In Belgium Match

Brussels, May 15 (By A. P.)—The American tennis stars, William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, won the International match with the Belgians, taking the two singles matches played today. Previously they had won the doubles and one of the singles, making their score 4 wins to 1. Tilden's defeat of Hunter Friday was the only defeat sustained by the Americans.

WHISKERY ENTRAINS FOR BELMONT PARK TRACK

On Derby

Rolled Stocking Hurt in Race; Almost Loses Shoe.

Crowd Estimated at
81,000; McAtee
Comes East.

Special to The Washington Post.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—Whiskey, Kentucky derby winner of $1,000, is on his way back to his Eastern habitat. With five other colts from that section won, he was loaded into a palace horse car before 7 o'clock this morning and started for Belvoir Park. Accompanying the Whitney winner were his stablemates, Bostonian, Scamp, Flow, Black Panther, Saxon and Rip Rap.

Osmond, which can such a gallant second to the winner, and his stablemate, Kiev, will be shipped tomorrow. Eddie Bauer and Joe will remain for further stakes in Kentucky. Of the jockeys, the winner, Eddie Collett, S. O'Donnell and A. Abel, departed last night to fill Eastern engagements. Earl Sande left this morning.

Inquiry at the various barns elicited information that all condition except Rolled Stocking, hope of the West, upon which Kentucky wagered enough in the mutuels to make the Parish colt second choice.

Rolled Stocking showed several cuts on his right forefoot and a chunk torn from the same hoof. This was caused in the Jams shortly after the race. Buddy Bauer, in the crowding, struck one of Pennant, probably a giant left, but the shoe had been torn off entirely. Fortunately, he showed no lameness in his stride. The impact loosened Rolled Stocking's shoe.

At the finish the shoe was hanging by one nail. It probably accounted for his disappointing showing if he were not better equipped if the shoe had been torn off entirely. Fortunately, he showed no lameness this morning and no permanent disability is expected.

Post derby conversation accorded great credit to Osmond with the thought that perhaps he might have reversed the order except for the rusty half up which he stepped about ten days ago, temporarily interrupting his training.

Hydromel, too, had a fever early in the week, which certainly did not help him. Fred, Jr., also ran a good race, running over tired horses at the end. Jack, too, had a fast a pace over a track a trifle slower than he had nothing left except courage when he finished which challenged. The conclusion, however, after all the if's and and's has been recorded was that the best colt on the day of the race was returned winner.

Revised attendance estimate, in addition to official count, were a crowd of 5,000, 6,000 greater than 1926.

What would mean about 81,000 people.

Play through the mutuels was $1,934, 262, of which $673,483 was wagered on the derby. This was a decrease from $92,098,701 handled in 1926, while $894,958 was placed on the derby.

The shrinkage of about $150,000 in play was attributed to the fact that many people are handling money a little more carefully this season and to afternoon showers which kept players from going into the clubhouse garden to get to the machines.

Of the money bet, $143,938 was spent on $2 tickets, $139,250 on 5¢ tickets, $139,690 on the windows, $16,440 was wagered in 20¢ stakes and $1,430 was sold in $100 lots. The record number of $2 tickets was sold on Derby Saturday. It totalled 5,763. Only 4,759 of those tickets were sold on the White.

It was the moneyed folks who wagered on Whitney to win. There were $22,000 wagers placed on the entry, which was more than twice as much as on any other horse in the derby.

Sometimes it was assumed that the majority of race bettors had placed their money on show and place. This was not true of a derby, out of a total of $1,934,262, on that race $339,640 was put on horses to win.

COLLYER'S COMMENT ON THE SPORT OF KINGS

BY BERT C. COLLYER

BU SY WIRES. Telegraph companies report a heavy increase in business down Louisville way. Terry O'Malley, of the Audley Farm stable, is sending the O. K. all over the country on NEVERMORE, which will line up at the barrier in this one for weeks, but Trainer Kay Spence scratched out twice because he did not have the right way.

From the chief of staff at Churchill Downs comes the good word that NEVERMORE can turn a couple of flip-flops and then beat the company he is meeting. This is good enough for your Uncle Bertam, especially as "Red" Stutts will not be in the coop and no guessing will be required.

HATS-UP is a rather consistent performer, and the track seems made to order for him in the opener, but he will have to step on the gas to stop the shortens.

BIRLEY M. C. is my system for the fifth. He is on razor edge and rearin' to go. BUSY DAY seems both a bad boy in the sixth. PHIL THOMAS does not call for much in the seventh, but the same applies to the other.

MADAM EMELIE had tough luck at Aurora the last time she started. She is engaged in the third heat Monday and Tuesday. Sixty, Creek Indian, Sixty Day, Baby, Galloping, Fairway, Full-Foot, Eelsfoot, Swordsman, Perseverance.

Best-up is a steady performer, and he will have to order for him in the eighth.

WOMAN ATTORNEY HONORED IN CAPITOL, DESPITE PROTESTS

500, Representing Score of Organizations, Pay Tribute to Dean Gillett.

EXERCISES CONDUCTED IN CRYPT OF BUILDING

Similar Memorial Held Only Once Before Under the National Dome.

Omitting all reference to protests held Saturday with Vice President Dawes and Speaker Longworth of the House, objecting to use of the Capitol for National Woman's Party memorial services, 500 women, representing more than a score of women's national organizations, gathered in the crypt of the building yesterday to pay tribute to Marian E. Gillett, pioneer feminist.

Only once before in history have similar exercises been held in the structure in memory of a woman. The other honored was Inez Milholland, also a suffrage leader, for whom a demonstration was held in the crypt in 1916.

Standing in the crypt before the marble statues of Lucretia Mott, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley eulogized the woman who followed in their footsteps and introduced the speakers who paid like tribute.

"There have been in the history of this woman's movement," said Mrs. Donald R. Hooker, national council chairman of the National Woman's Party, "several outstanding persons, but few women who have opened new doors to freedom for great numbers of other women. Miss Gillett was one of these epoch makers. Miss Gillett's life interprets to the present generation of women the spirit of the suffragists, pioneers and bridges over the gulf which separates the unsuccessful from the successful feminist movement in this country."

Law College Dean Speaks.

Grace Hayes Riley, dean of the Washington College of Law, founded by Miss Gillett, took the audience back to the log cabin days of Wisconsin, where Miss Gillett was born in 1855, and described the life of the pioneer, through her graduation from the Howard University law school, her admission to practice before the District bar and the United States Supreme court, and her work in educational fields.

Judge Kathryn Sellers of the District Juvenile court, one of Miss Gillett's pupils, spoke briefly of Miss Gillett's contribution to women's progress in the legal profession.

The exercises opened with music by the United States Marine band orchestra. Entering from both sides of the rotunda, a procession of women bearing the banners of participating organizations wound its way around the church.

Twenty women of the Church of the Transfiguration, where Miss Gillett worshipped, and 50 members of the Woman's Party were in the procession. Singing the traditional hymns, the choir of the First Congregational Church entered from another corridor. The services were opened with a prayer by the Rev. John Qualey, of the Church of the Transfiguration.

Mrs. Wiley, preceding the presidential expression of the President, the President of the United States and the Speaker of the House in acknowledging the aid of others assisting in the program.

Comments on Protest.

Commenting on the protests, when afterward questioned by a reporter, she said:

"Those who protested our services have always objected to women suffrage activities. That explains everything."

Among the nationally-known organizations participating in the ceremonies were the National Education Association, the National League of Women Voters, the National Association of Women Lawyers, American Bar Association, Women's City Club, General Federation of Women's Clubs, Women's Universal Alliance, Y. W. H. A., Catholic Daughters of America, Salvation Army, Council of Jewish Women, Susan B. Anthony Foundation, W. C. T. U., Zonta Club, International Society for the League for Peace and Freedom, the International Association of Police-women, American Association of University Women, American Legion Auxiliary, the International Relief Bureau and the National Woman's Party.

Assisting Marie Moon Foy, as chairman of arrangements for the memorial were Mrs. Wiley, chairman; Mrs. Rebekah Greathouse, Assistant United States District attorney; Mrs. Charles F. Tingley, Mrs. Burton Smith, Mrs. Matthews, Miss Ida May Mayo, Mrs. Thacker Walker, Emma Wold, Dean Riley, Miss Pearl McCall, Assistant United States District Attorney; Mrs. Helen Doocy Reed and Miss Margaret Lambie.
